Open Source Circular Economy Days

OSCEdays

Open Source Circular Economy Days is a diverse & globally distributed event using Open Source methodology to build a Circular Economy

Experts and innovators from the fields of open source hardware, software, data, design, circular economy, waste, resource management and the collaborative economy work together in local events organized by local organizers, but globally connected, in order to develop, exchange ideas and prototype systems, products and designs for an Open Source Circular Economy.

MISSION STATEMENT

OSCEdays is an open platform. Workshops, teardowns, co-design and prototyping take place simultaneously in various cities all over the world. Local events are organized by local groups, focusing on local challenges. Cities are connected through various media channels including continuous online documentation in our forums and daily video streams, contributing to a global conversation and pool of knowledge on the Open Source Circular Economy.
