This can be stupid, but the donation page is in German, and it is the only site that is different from the rest (apart from the cities that communicate the events in a specific language)

Call for Local Organizers & Community Builders

& Participation Guide

SET UP A LOCAL ACTIVITY

OSCEdays is an open and distributed community exploring Open Source for Circular Economy. One of the most important ways to connect globally and locally is to enable and invite people to organize local events. In the past 2 years almost 100 local groups in 100 cities got engaged.

Organize a local event and add a local community. Events are a good way to test something new and invite people to it. OSCEdays provides a growing list of ACTIONS = things you can do and play with at a local event. There are also several practical materials you can use to set up a local event. Below you can find more information about how to set up an event.

You can read this participation guide already in our forum - where most OSCEdays collaboration happens.

Participation FAQ

What Kind Of Event?

There is no minimum or maximum size for a local event. It can be very small with just some friends meeting for an afternoon to do something or very large with activities for several days or weeks.

Look at the OSCEdays ACTION protocols to get inspiration for activities at your event. All of these ACTIONS will make you use and build open resources to push the building of a global circular economy. Just take some of them and invite people to facilitate and implement them locally.

These pages are very complete, the information presented explains in depth all aspects of the OSCE events, but I consider that adjustments could be made in the way the information is presented so that it is much easier to take advantage of by those who want to participate or create Their events.

In some parts the information is not very clear (it is very open... sorry) on how to carry out the event or how to carry it out.

You have to look at several sites to complete and get an idea of all the relevant information (OSCEdays ACTION protocols, several practical materials, read this participation guide already in our forum, adaptable graphic design files) and perhaps could be centralized.

Another thing that could be done is to deliver a package with everything necessary to carry out an event and a very clear summary. If you want to drill down, then complete that information with other sites and if you still have questions help yourself with the category you have already in the forum, but let's say that the order and complexity of the information can be incremental.

A global project, community & resource base to develop a sustainable circular economy using & inventing open source methodologies

This should be more dynamic which may include different communication events

Make explicit call for actions

Share your knowledge in the forum with the rest of the world

OSCED makes use of the forum as a common space to share, discuss and collect the ideas that can be translated into actions, events and usable value

Know the people and the see our community videos

OSCED owes a lot to meetings shared and recorded, so that all of us can get to know the people involved and meet them in person.

The OSCED Blog

We use the blog to share references and debates that are fundamental to accelerate the transition towards a more sustainable future. We care about the big questions and the network of potential solutions

Take ACTIONS

Actions stands for a knowledge repository open for anyone to share how to design, document, build, test, and share solutions that can be shared based on best open source documentation practices
